At the closing meeting of the Convention of the Sundaes are enabling thin Prayer Meeting, the following resolutions were maximously adopted:

Resolved That at the close of these exercises, this Convention stand adjourned to the 25d of November next, to meet in Pulladelphia, during or immodiately after the anniversary exercises of the Jayne's Hail Prayer-Meeting.

Resolved, That a Committee of nineteen be appointed to inquire what systematic action can be adopted by the Daily Union Prayer Meetings in convention, to promote their own extension in every Meetings in convention, to promote their own extension in every exity and village, and to carry cut in every way and to every extent approve of by the Great Head of the Church, that principle of union, and that consecration of secular hours, places, and forces, by which they are characterized: contemplating, among others auch methods as those of field, tent, and public-hall preacting. Lay-Evangelism, missionary deputations to unawakened or destinate places, and the consecration of the power of the Press to the office of preaching the Gospel daily to every creature. The following gentlemen were chosen as a Committee:

Messrs. D.dge, Lamphier, Rushton, Morrison, Connat, and Bingham, New-York; Breass G. H. Stuart, P. P. Simmons, and the Revs. Duffield, Pratt, and Cookosan, Philadelphia, Dr. Grant and E. G. TO THE LOVING SERVANTS OF CHRIST.

Such should all be who bear his name. It is with a sense of our own deficiency in love and service, no less keen than our de-sire for your and our increased devotion and usefulness, that we now address you.

We do it in the capacity of a Convention, from many branches of the Christian Church, now in session in the City of New York.
It was called by Christians of various names here, to meet in connection with the second anniversary of the Fultonst. Daily

It was called by Christians of various names here, to meet in connection with the second anniversary of the Fulton-t. Daily Prayer-Meeting.

The history of that and similar meetings is in part known to you, as it is throughout Evangelical Christendom. Many of us, from different parts of this and other lands, have now learned new facts in those histories, and have had new impressions of the prayer-hearing grace of God, as illustrated by the requests and answers, which, have marked those two years of daily application. From the widest extremes of our own land, from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast; from Ireland and other ports of Europe, and even from Asia and Africa, fresh testimony has been borne to us the past week, by eye wincesses and heart winnesses, of the power of prayer, and of the special answers to united and persevering petitions, where the primitive Daily Service of Prayer has been reestablished; and we cannot, we dare not separate, after a Convocation of the deepest interest, without earnestly requesting our brethren, of every name and in every station in the One Church of our Blessed Redeemer, to avail themselves, to their various cities and villages, of this instrumentality.

Judging from what we have now heard, and from what many of us have before seen and felt, we are persuaded that the Dairy Prayer-Meeting wherever maintained, though the numbers in attendance be small, will be highly useful, and in the following ways:

tendance be small, will be highly useful, and in the following ways:

1. It will bring the various members of Christ's body to a better knowledge and warmer love for each other, and thus tend to the fulfillment of his desire and prayer for their unity, and so his giery in their fruitfulness.

2. It will increase their knowledge of two classes of facts; the one, showing the demands of duty in their respective fields of Christian labor; the other, magnifying to their view his power and grace of God, which can make such isbor effectual.

3. It will aford an occasion for the young and timid disciple to open his lips in prayer and exhortation; and will thus greatly increase the number of active assistants in social worship.

4. It will furnish a place to which the careless can be daily invited; where the awakened can ask for prayer; and where the humble penitent may express and thus confirm his purpose to serve the Lord.

5. It will give Christian disciples a daily respite from the cares.

serve the Lord.

5. It will give Christian disciples a daily respite from the cares and temptations of busy life; fortify their hearts against the samults of the adversary, and tend to the inscribing of "Holiness to the Lord," on all the habitations and business of mea.

6. It will place the Church of Christ in that posture of united daily supplication in which her ascending Saviour left, her, wailing for the promised Spirit, and in which the day of Pentecoat found her, rejoicing in this glorious advent; the same posture of "Extraordinary Agreement in Prayer," which preceded and attended the "Great Awakening" in the eighteenth century, and the greater, and we hope more permanent, Revival in the Nineteenth.

the greater, and we hope more permanent, Revival in the Nineteenth.

Brehren and friends! We all profess to be the friends of him, the Lord of glory, who is not ashamed to call us brehren. How cupit we to love one another! How cupit we to lave in building up his kingdom! How ought we to love the souls for which he died, and to strive to win them to his love, and to their own eternal salvation! We firmly believe, not without evidence from the past, that the general observance of an nour in each secular day, for united and ferven prayer, would in these ways, among others, promote these results in the hearts and lives of Carist's people; that it would increase their love and their labor of love; while it would secure for that labor success, which comes only from above.

Thus believing, we make no apology for pressing this subject upon your attention, as invelving one answer from God's Spirit and Flovidence, to that question, taking from the hearts to the hips of an earliest loving disciple: "Lord what will Tho: have no to de?"

"We can turn to no title which does not confirm our confidence in the judicious distribution of the work. Each article seems to have been written by an expert in the department to which it belongs. There can be no coubt that, at least for the use of American readers, and in some respects wherever the English language is spoken, the Cyclopadia will greatly surpass in its value as a teference book any similar complication that has yet been issued on either side of the Atlantic." The STORY OF A WOMAN'S LIFE.

In a former advertisement of this book, we gave lengthy extracts from prominent English journals abowing the higa estimation in which it was held by some of the best interary authorities abroad. We now offer the following complianentary notices from such of our ewer pages as have been recalived:

"There is a great moral in the work; a grand moral, which the world needs to have forced upon its recognition, and impressed upon its conscience, more than associately expensed to the error Magesilens who would fain put of the same least of the depths. Chestianity protending world, reportance is refused to the error Magesilens who would fain put of the same let and wear spain the waiter robes of chastily. They are hunted down by society, driven away from "respectability," branded with a same which hours our every remaining vestige of purity and virtue in their hearts, and, having tasted, are sompelled to drink the cup of vice to its lowest, must loathsome, dregs in this story of a fallen woman's life, the outcast does work out her recompition, but the struggle with which she reguins her lost estate is a fearful one. The tale may be a fiction, so far as its incidents are concerned, but it is nevertheless a true one. It has a thousand counterparts, and without the equal, it has a hundred times a thousand. The book we believe, wii do a good work, in teaching the Christian world a much-needed lesson."

OUT OF THE DEPTHS: THE STORY OF A WOMAN'S LIFE. 370 pages, 12mm., neatly bound. Price $1.

From The Boston Atlas and Bee.

"It presents the actual facts of the initory of a lost and degraded woman and might serve, doubtless, as a picture for many thousand cases. We never hat any sympathy with that oversensitiveness and squeamishness which would put the seal of silence or the lips of such as make these revelations, and draw the vail of oblivion over their history. What good will allence and suppression of the facts do either to the unfortunate victims of this worst of all vices, or to those who are liable to be drawn into the same clamat vortex! It may be that such pablications as this serve as a sort of guide-board to the unfurtated provided in the server as a sort of guide-board to the unfurtated, a provocation to vice; that those who have not tried the devious ways of sin will be tempted to try them by such exposure, but, on the other sand, will not some be deterred by the terrible revelations of suffering, remore, and shame! This is a bold book, and will challenge citticism and remark. We hope it may do good, and believe that its perusal ought to do good rather than mischief."

OUT OF THE DEPTHS: THE STORY OF A WOMAN'S LIFE. One vol. 12mo., 370 pages. Price $1.

From The New-York Express.

"The English critics have been divided in their opintons as to whether the author of this book is a man or a woman; we think decidedly, the former: for a lady could hardly be as conversant with the phases of life described, as to be able to paint them rappleadly and impressively.

The style is simple and unpretending, and has an effective air of homeity truthfainess. The book is one that will do great good, in showing the batchia land hardening effects of the social evil portrayed so faithfully, and the possibility of rescue that remains to the almost hopelessly lost. The pure and virtuous characters are delineated in captivasting colors, yet with artistic discrimination. We are mistaken if the work do not make its mark upon the age."

OUT OF THE DEPTHS: THE STORY OF A WOMAN'S LIFE. 570 pages, 12ono. Price $1.

"As a story, it is well written and is full of interest, and will be read with great expenses, while it is to be hoped that it may draw a tear of pity and compassion for an unfortunate class, many of whom are involved in degradation and misery from starting point not more shiftli than that of the beroise of this starting point not more shiftli than that of the beroise of this

"The story of the sufferings of the heroine of this story is ower true tale of many an unfortunate in our large cities who is ceives too often the meed of score and contempt, instead of a manufe of charity, for her misfortunes. It is printed and beau in the usual beautiful style of all works from the press of Messa Townsend & Co."

From The N. Y. Courier and Enquiers.

"Regarding this work there will doubtiess exist a variety of opinions. It purports to be the record of one who, having such as low as a female can sink, these to a respectable station in life. The story is well told, and though the reader is taken through scales which may sometimes starte, still there is nothing told that is offensive. The object of the writer is most commendable, and he or she, which it may be, appears to be thoroughly acquained with the kind of lite described in the volume. It is certainly exceedingly interesting."

"It is admitted that Robert Housen did obtain great eminence in his countion, for he was sure by the French Government on a cort of pointical mission, to actorish the Araba and counteract the infection of their Marabouts. He was thus an Embassador among Designer as and Counter among Embassadors. He now adds the riple trick of authorship to his professional pages and personal ransformations."

triple trick of authorship to his professional pages and personal transformations."

"Certainly his tricks and transformations are wonderful, and at the same lime appeal to something higher than the sentement of wonder. To be chief in any department of bushes don't is a point of ambition, and amongst Conjuren, Robert Houdin unquestionably bears away the paint."

"Without any sarcadic intention, we might show that the Conjurer was really a man of greater ability that many a successful author. On the whole, we can recommend these Mamnirs of Robert Houdin' as pleasant reading."
